11 Miners Alive In Flooded Shaft

Another Rescue Operation Begins At West German Pit

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP) — Surface workers made contact Sunday in the flooded Lendegge iron mine with 11 men who had been given up for dead, with 29 others, a week ago. Drillers hoped to rescue them by Wednesday.

A narrow supply shaft was quickly sunk 200 feet to the trapped band in the third such rescue operation since a broken dam poured millions of gallons of water from an ore-washing reservoir into the mine at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24.

Ten trapped men had been pulled out previously after extensive drilling, though a drop in the water level permitted seven of these to raft to safety rather than using an escape shaft specially sunk for them.

A stream of supplies — tea, soup, chocolate and Zwieback, tiny lamps, warm underwear and socks — moved down the supply shaft to the narrow mine chamber where stagnant water sealed the 11 with 10 of the dead men.

The gallery is only about 13 feet long and 10 feet wide. It is 23 feet high, with a ceiling

Car Plunges Into Harlem River; 11 Die

Tragedy Strikes In Wake Of Gay Christening Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven persons—men, women and children of "one big family"—drowned early Sunday when the car in which they were returning from a gay christening party leaped over a dead-end barrier and plunged into the icy waters of the Harlem River.

The death toll equalled the state's known record for a single traffic mishap.

Police said twin blinker warning lights near the river's edge had been blacked out by vandals who tore out the wiring.

Those who died included three men, four women and four children, all members of interrelated Brooklyn families.

The group was en route from the christening party in the Bronx home of Rabin Dr. Berrios.

One Declines To Ride

He said one other member of the christening party had declined to ride in what later became the death car because he considered it overcrowded.

"I begged them—there were too many people—to go in a second car which I said I could get for them," he said. "But they insisted they could manage it."

He recalled, "We had such a wonderful time. The children enjoyed themselves. What could I have done to prevent it?"

The crash almost wiped out three interrelated Brooklyn families.

Survivor In Shock

Only one person, I. Martinez, 40, of Brooklyn, was known to survive. In severe shock, he has been unable to give the definite number of occupants in the passenger car.

Police identified those killed as:

Mrs. Judith Velez Martinez, 25, and her 4-year-old daughter, Dalia.

Mrs. Amelia Aponte Velez, 34; Luis Berrios, 22, his son, Angel, 15 months; his daughter, Iris, three, and the elder Berrios' sister, Haydee Berrios, 21, and Juan Borrelli, 40.

Police tentatively identified these others as killed in the crash:

Robinson Aponet Velez; Mrs. Norma Irish Berrios, 21, wife of Luis Berrios, and David Martinez, 9.

Cold Snap Hits Much Of East

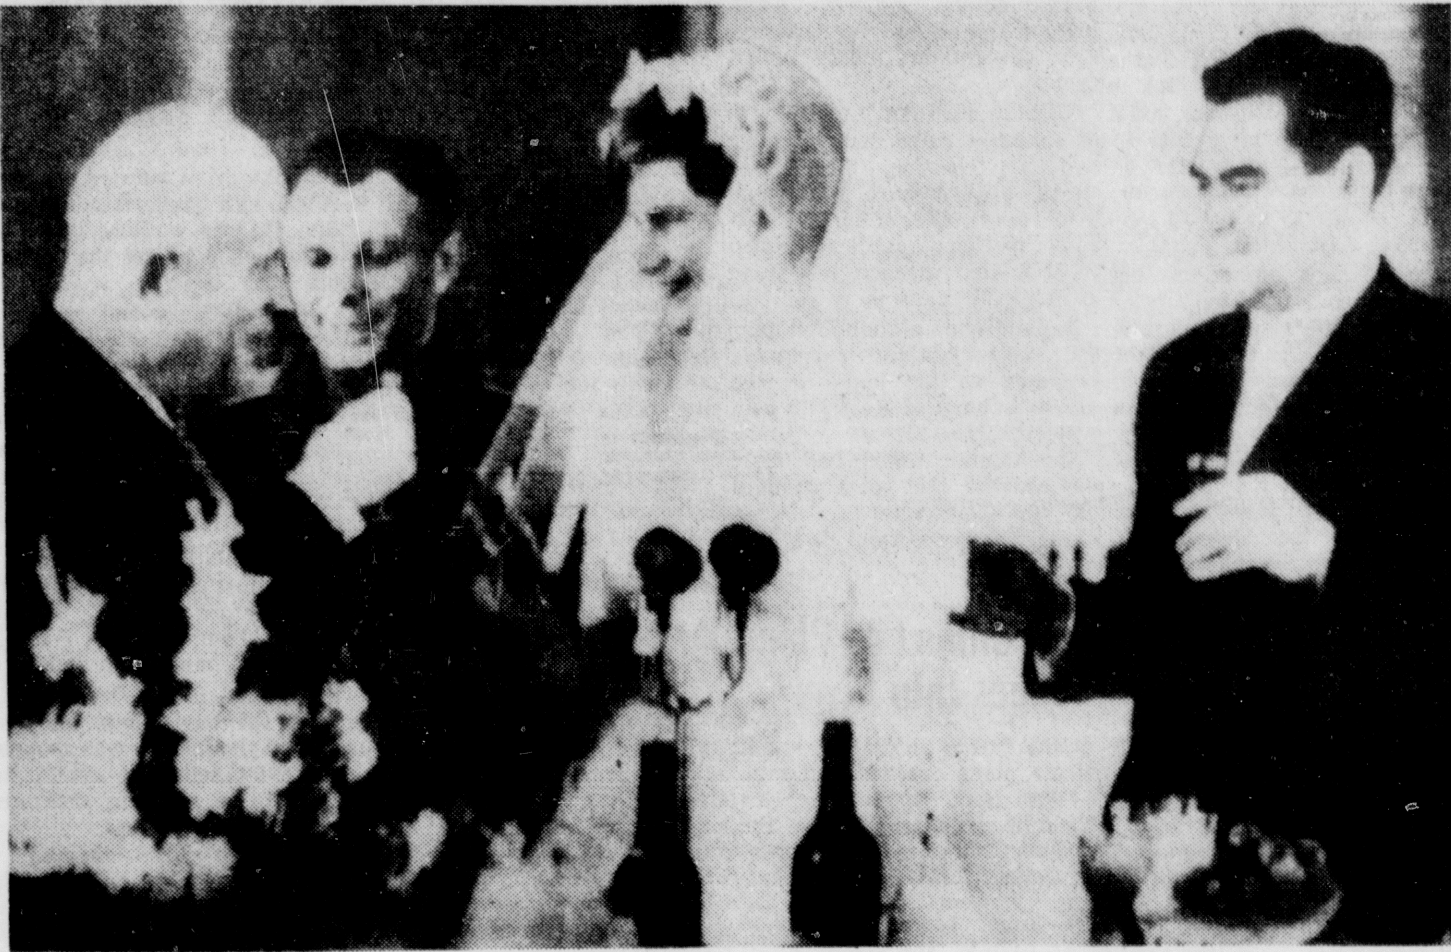

By United Press International
The first general cold snap of the season plunged temperatures below freezing over much of the eastern half of the nation Sunday.

London, Ky., had a low temperature of 17 above and a reading of 37 at Tampa, Fla., was the coldest ever recorded there so early in the season.

The nation's cold spot was Marquette, Mich., with 15 degrees. It was 17 at Cincinnati, Ohio. In the south it was 28 at Raleigh, N. C., and Charleston, W. Va.

Louisville, Ky., reported 25 degrees and Jackson, Miss., 33 degrees.

Skies cleared over most of the nation Sunday after early weekend snows and rains brought hopes for an end to the staggering drought that spreads from New England to the southern plains.

Morocco Army Claims Algeria Attack Repelled

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—The Moroccan army said Sunday its troops had pushed back an Algerian infantry attack after all-day fighting in and around the oasis of Figuig.

At nightfall, Moroccan officers at Bou Arfa, 60 miles northwest of Figuig, said several battalions of Algerian troops were thrown back into the hills by the Moroccan defenders of Figuig.

According to the Moroccans, Figuig was attacked by several thousand Algerians Sunday morning after a heavy artillery barrage. The attack again damaged the precarious cease-fire signed by the two sides at Bamako, Mali, last week.

Figui has been the scene of fighting since the cease-fire deadline of midnight Friday.

The only telephone line linking Figuig with the rest of the country was cut, but Moroccan troops were still holding the highway between the oasis and Bou Arfa.

During the day, troops of the Algerian "National People's Army" slowly progressed into the oasis, the Moroccans said. They set up machine guns and mortars in dugouts and abandoned homes.

A Moroccan counter attack re-established the situation and at day's end the Algerians were reported abandoning the points they had secured earlier, the Moroccans said.

Both sides blamed the other for the fighting.

Moroccan Bid Rejected

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)—The United States and France have rejected a Moroccan proposal to take the Algerian-Moroccan border dispute to the United Nations, diplomatic sources said Sunday.

The diplomatic sources said the United States and France advised King Hassan II of Morocco to try to settle the conflict within the African sphere because neither wished to compromise its neutrality in the crisis.

Cosmonauts Wed; 'K' Hosts Reception

Pair May Be Sent Back Into Space

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonauts drian, 34. Both lost their own fathers during World War II.

"I didn't bring any baby buggies or pacifiers," he said. "If you have a baby, the gifts won't fail to come."

Here the guests—family, cosmonauts and most of the political, military, scientific, theatrical and literary great of the Soviet Union—interrupted.

"Gorka, Gorka!" they began chanting in rhythm.

This is an old Russian marriage custom. The word means "bitter" and is a call for the husband to kiss away the bitter taste of wedding wine and premarital unhappiness in his wife's mouth.

With Khrushchev shouting "go ahead!" Nikolayev lost no time in giving his wife a long and passionate kiss.

Bewildered by all the fuss, and almost speechless with happiness were two incongruous guests at the head table—peasant-clad Anna Nikolayena and Yelena Tereshkova—mothers of the bride and groom. Like the dignitaries present, they feasted on smoked salmon, baked sturgeon, shashlik and other delicacies which crowded the table.

Khrushchev, presiding as master of ceremonies, rang a silver bell to introduce each of the 21 toasts — progressively merrier as the noon wedding breakfast lasted way into the evening.

The Premier did most of the talking himself, as usual, and also as usual, could not resist taking political cracks at the West.

He hailed Soviet space exploits and claimed "even our opponents realize that we have the leading role in space. They haven't overtaken us as yet and we are not going to let them."

This could be another one of the day's hints—that the Soviet Union is not bowing out of the moon race.

Khrushchev also boasted "our people is covering itself with glory. We shall give the capital of 13½ cents an hour. Westinghouse said longer vacations, improvements in insurance cover-

But, beaming and twinkling, Khrushchev did not forget he was acting as sort of foster-father to Valentina, 26, and An-

Joyful Saigon Crowds Dance, Jam Pagodas

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — They danced the twist and the tango — and any other dance banned under Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu's morality laws. The night clubs of Saigon joyously threw open their doors at noon Sunday and the crowds flocked in.

They celebrated the downfall of President Ngo Dinh Diem by thumbing their noses at the morality laws introduced in April 1962, in Madame Nhu's crackdown on such things as beauty contests, dancing, cock fights and boxing matches.

As part of the new look, bar girls and night club hostesses doffed the white hospital-like smocks they had been required to wear under the morality laws, and donned the eye-catching slit skirt Vietnamese women traditionally wear.

There were many other evidences of the popularity, at least as of now, of the coup.

Vietnamese women and children offered food to soldiers posted throughout the city. They came singly and in groups carrying baskets filled with delicacies.

Youths and students clustered around groups of soldiers chatting and laughing. A soldier near the National Assembly dismantled and reassembled his machinegun for the benefit of an admiring knot of children.

Many of the soldiers wore little saffron ribbons in their lapels to denote they are Buddhists. The ribbons came in style at the height of the Buddhist campaign against Diem's government, but disappeared after Diem cracked down on the Buddhist opposition movement last August.

Buddhist pagodas were thronged this weekend for the first time since Diem's troops stormed in and arrested their leaders Aug. 21. Monks, dressed in their ceremonial saffron robes, wandered freely about the city.

There was no repetition of rowdy scenes of looting and pillaging Saturday in which many pro-government homes, pro-government newspapers and pro-government book stores were sacked.

Cyanide In River Lost By Tracers

NEWTON, Ill. (AP) — Sanitary engineers tracing a quantity of cyanide in the Embarras River lost track of the poison north of Newton Sunday.

The last samples showing traces of cyanide were taken Saturday night from the river at a point a few miles upstream from Newton.

Newton resumed pumping water from the river Sunday when the halting Saturday when the cyanide traces were first detected at Mattoon. A close watch is being kept at Newton, in case of another outbreak.

SELINGROVE, Pa. (AP) — Six members of one family were killed Sunday in a collision involving three vehicles at nearby Hummels Wharf, in central Pennsylvania.

The victims were identified as the father, David Earl Oldweiler, 32, of Marietta, Pa.; his son, David Earl Jr., 14 months; and four daughters, Tina Maria, Marie, 2; Doris Ann, 3; Sheila Jane, 5; and Sharon Elaine, 6.

Authorities at Sunbury Community Hospital said a car pulled out in front of Oldweiler's auto. Oldweiler bumped into the car, then slammed into a tractor-trailer, it was reported.

Oldweiler's wife, Carol, 25, was admitted to Sunbury Community Hospital with back and pelvic injuries. Another son, James, 3 weeks old, had possible head injuries.

Neither the driver of the other auto nor the truck driver was injured.

Five Children Die When Home Burns

WOODLAND, N.C. (AP) — Five small Negro children burned to death Saturday night when flames quickly burned the five room house in which they slept.

The victims, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rawls Vaughan, ranged in age from 14 months to 7 years. The Vaughns have no other children.

Vaughan said he and his wife had put the children to bed about 7:30 p.m. and walked to the home of a neighbor to watch television.

Speedy U.S. Recognition Anticipated

Junta Which Upset Diem's Government Seen Holding Power

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The revolutionary junta that destroyed the Ngo Dinh Diem regime worked Sunday on the composition of a Buddhist-led government which it expects to win quick recognition from the United States.

The reins of power, however, presumably will be held by the junta itself. The chief of this military committee is Maj. Gen. Doung Van Minh, a 47-year-old Buddhist who engineered the coup.

A Buddhist who served as vice president under Diem, a Roman Catholic, is reported heading up the provisional regime as premier. He is Nguyen Ngoc Tho, 55, who had little power but a reputation as a mediator in the vice presidency.

Absentees' Surrender Urged

There were reports that another Buddhist who was formerly secretary of state and defense minister, Nguyen Dinh Thuan, also would be given a post in the new cabinet.

The national radio station broadcast an order for all members of the defunct regime who may be in hiding to report to authorities and turn over their arms. Usually reliable sources said absentees included the former civic action minister, Ngo Trong Hieu.

Witnesses and unofficial photographs confirmed that junta announcement Saturday that both Diem and his once powerful younger brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, are dead.

Though the official story was that they committed suicide upon their arrest after fleeing the shell-scarred presidential palace Saturday, it appeared they probably were killed by soldiers.

Diem's Body At Hospital

It was learned the bloodied body of the former president was being kept at Saigon's St. Paul Hospital and it was believed Nhu's was there also.

The United Nations mission which arrived here two weeks ago to study charges of alleged persecution of Buddhists by Diem's government announced it is returning home.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who before the coup had been scheduled to return to Washington this weekend for consultations, cancelled plans for any immediate return. He now is expected to remain here at least until the United States recognizes the new government.

Mrs. Nhu Told Children Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department sent a telegram Sunday to Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, the former first lady of South Viet Nam, assuring her that three of her children were unharmed in the weekend military coup.

They will be flown to Rome for a reunion with their mother and older sister, Le Thuy.

The Department of State operations center broke a policy of ignoring Mrs. Nhu's visit as a private citizen in this country to send her the message. It was sent to Mrs. Nhu's suite at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif.

U.S. Deplores Death Of Diem

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. officials expressed regret Sunday that South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu had met violent death while in the custody of revolutionary military forces in Saigon.

A high government source said the administration repudiated an earlier view expressed privately by an official that the brothers had reaped the harvest of their own misdeeds.

This does not represent the opinions of the top leaders of the U.S. government, the high government source said.

Nation Will Retire Nuclear Warhorse

Historic Oak Ridge Pile To Be Shut Down

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) —and other well-known scientists. Official shutdown of the reactor marks a milestone in the nuclear age and in the history of Oak Ridge, an atomic frontier town that sprang up overnight to become a sort of sociological phenomenon.

The reactor, formerly called the "Clinton Pile" and the "X-10," is described by one Oak Ridge scientist as one of the major engineering feats of all time. It was on Nov. 3, 1943, that a group of men began working in two teams through the night loading the radioactive fuel by hand into the reactor to start its unseen collisions of neutrons and atoms — energy-releasing fission.

Like soldiers ramming shot into a cannon, with long poles they shoved thousands of uranium slugs into the heart of the reactor, a massive concrete house with seven-foot-thick walls surrounding a cube stack of graphite blocks 24 feet across.

Twelve hours later — 5 a.m. Nov. 4 — they had inserted 31 tons of fuel into the reactor, and suddenly jangling alarm bells warned that the X-10 was "critical" — an atomic furnace in operation.

Seven Persons Die In Maryland Auto Accidents

By The Associated Press
Maryland traffic accidents killed seven persons in less than 24 hours during the past weekend, including four persons in the crash of a car and a gasoline truck.

Police said the truck, carrying 5,000 gallons of gasoline, ran broadside into the car Saturday night as the car pulled onto U.S. 40 from the Turf Valley Country Club near Ellicott City.

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Hyman David Caplan and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lebow, all in their late 50s, residents of an apartment house near Pikesville.

The truck did not burn and the driver was not injured.

State Police at Waterloo said Mary Frances Flemming, 53, of Baltimore, was killed Sunday when her car rammed into the rear of another car on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway south of Maryland 46 in Anne Arundel County. She died later in the day at University Hospital in Baltimore.

Margaret E. Avery, 25, of Takoma Park, died early Sunday, police said, when the car in which she was a passenger collided head-on with another car on Maryland 355 near Gaithersburg. The drivers suffered head and leg injuries, police reported.

The other victim was Eugene Pittman, 72, of Baltimore, who died Saturday night. Police said he was struck by a car in South Baltimore Friday.

Elsa Maxwell Rites Private

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elsa Maxwell, who left no known relatives but counted among her friends the upper echelons of international society, will be eulogized at a private funeral service this week.

Attorneys said final arrangements were incomplete but Miss Maxwell, who died last Friday at the age of 80, asked that her ashes be scattered over the Adriatic Sea which she cruised many times on the yachts of kings and millionaires.

At her death, attributed to heart disease, Miss Maxwell had been hospitalized only two days. She appeared 10 days ago at the annual April in Paris Ball, which she founded.

Firemen Fight Blaze At Shopping Center

BALTIMORE (AP) — A six-alarm fire stubbornly resisted firemen Sunday afternoon as it burned in the basement of a variety store in the Edmondson Village Shopping Center in West Baltimore.

The Fire Department reported some 30 pieces of equipment at the scene and firemen used oxygen equipment because of dense smoke.

No injuries were reported. The blaze was discovered sometime after 1 p.m. A second alarm was sounded shortly before 1:30 and another four were sounded before 2 p.m.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Burns Prove Fatal To 4-Year-Old Girl

BALTIMORE (AP) — A four-year-old Fallston girl died late Saturday night at Union Memorial Hospital here from burns she received Oct. 17.

Police said the child, Linda Waddell, was playing with matches in the front yard of her home when her dress caught fire. She was burned over most of her body.

Papandreou Claims Greek Ballot Victory

ATHENS, Greece, Monday (UPI) — The Center Union party of 75-year-old George Papandreou appeared early today to be defeating the political comeback attempt of former Premier Constantine Caramanlis in a closely-fought Greek national election.

But the Center Union fell far short of capturing an absolute parliamentary majority itself, leaving the outlook for Greece's new government highly uncertain.

With more than 2,300,000 out of 5,000,000 votes counted after Sunday's election, the Center Union held a bare 60,000-vote lead over Caramanlis' right-wing National Radical Union (NRU). He resigned last June after eight years in power.

Papandreou claimed victory and his jubilant supporters swarmed to his home in the Athens suburb of Kastrì to congratulate him.

The Center Union had 42.54 per cent of the votes counted and the NRU 39.99 per cent — a staggering drop from their 1961 vote total of 50.8 per cent.

Pilot Unhurt As Plane Plunges Into River

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A small private plane crashed and sank in South River about a quarter of a mile downstream from the Maryland 2 bridge in Anne Arundel County late Sunday afternoon.

The pilot, James W. Rhodes, 47, of Adelphi, Md., escaped uninjured.

The Tidewater Fisheries Commission said Rhodes was pulled from the water by the Woodland Beach Rescue Squad and taken to Anne Arundel General Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Rhodes was examined and was to be released Sunday night.

Suicide Plunge At Notre Dame

PARIS (UPI) — A 64-year-old Frenchman, his pockets stuffed with clippings on recent suicides from the Eiffel Tower and the Arch of Triumph, leaped 200 feet to his death Sunday from a tower of Notre Dame Cathedral.

Police said Henri Joblot plunged into the Archbishop's Garden late Sunday as hundreds of French visitors and foreign tourists strolled about the cathedral in sunny, warm weather.

According to police, Joblot apparently hid in the right tower of the 12th century cathedral after it had been cleared of the public for its regular 4 p. m. closing time. About 20 minutes later, he plunged to his death.

Quick Action Saves Baby

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Arms filled with groceries, Bas Gaddie, 43, was walking home Saturday when he got the shock of his life.

He looked up — and saw a 19-month-old boy teetering on the sill of a third-floor window.

Gaddie dropped the groceries, clambered over a six-foot fence and raced the 30 feet toward the apartment building. Little Christopher Cotton started his fall.

The outstretched arms of Gaddie just reached the tumbling body before impact. Christopher bounced off Gaddie's clutching hands, sprawled on the ground and screamed.

But the boy, whose baby sitter had thought he was napping, was examined at a hospital and found to be suffering from only one thing — fright.

FRANKFURT (AP) — The first man killed in Exercise Big Lift was an American sergeant whose jeep overturned in an open field. He died on Friday, but the accident was announced only Sunday.

His mother, Gladys J. Myers, lives in Baltimore, Md.

Six Brandeis Students Face Dope Charges

WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Six Brandeis University students, including a coed, have been arrested on a series of marijuana raids on campus, authorities disclosed Sunday.

The students, ranging in age from 17 to 22, were picked up by state and local police in raids on their dormitory rooms at noon Friday, state police said.

Also arrested was Charles E. Giuliano, 23, of Brookline, Mass., who allegedly supplied the marijuana found in the rooms. He was seized in Brookline.

The students were identified as Alice M. Webber, 19, of Springfield, Mass.; James T. Silin, 20, of Erie, Pa.; Richard M. Lerman, 18, of Milwaukee; James G. Grossman, 20, of New York City; Robert L. Ackerman, 17, of New York City; and Walter R. Klavun, 22, of New York City.

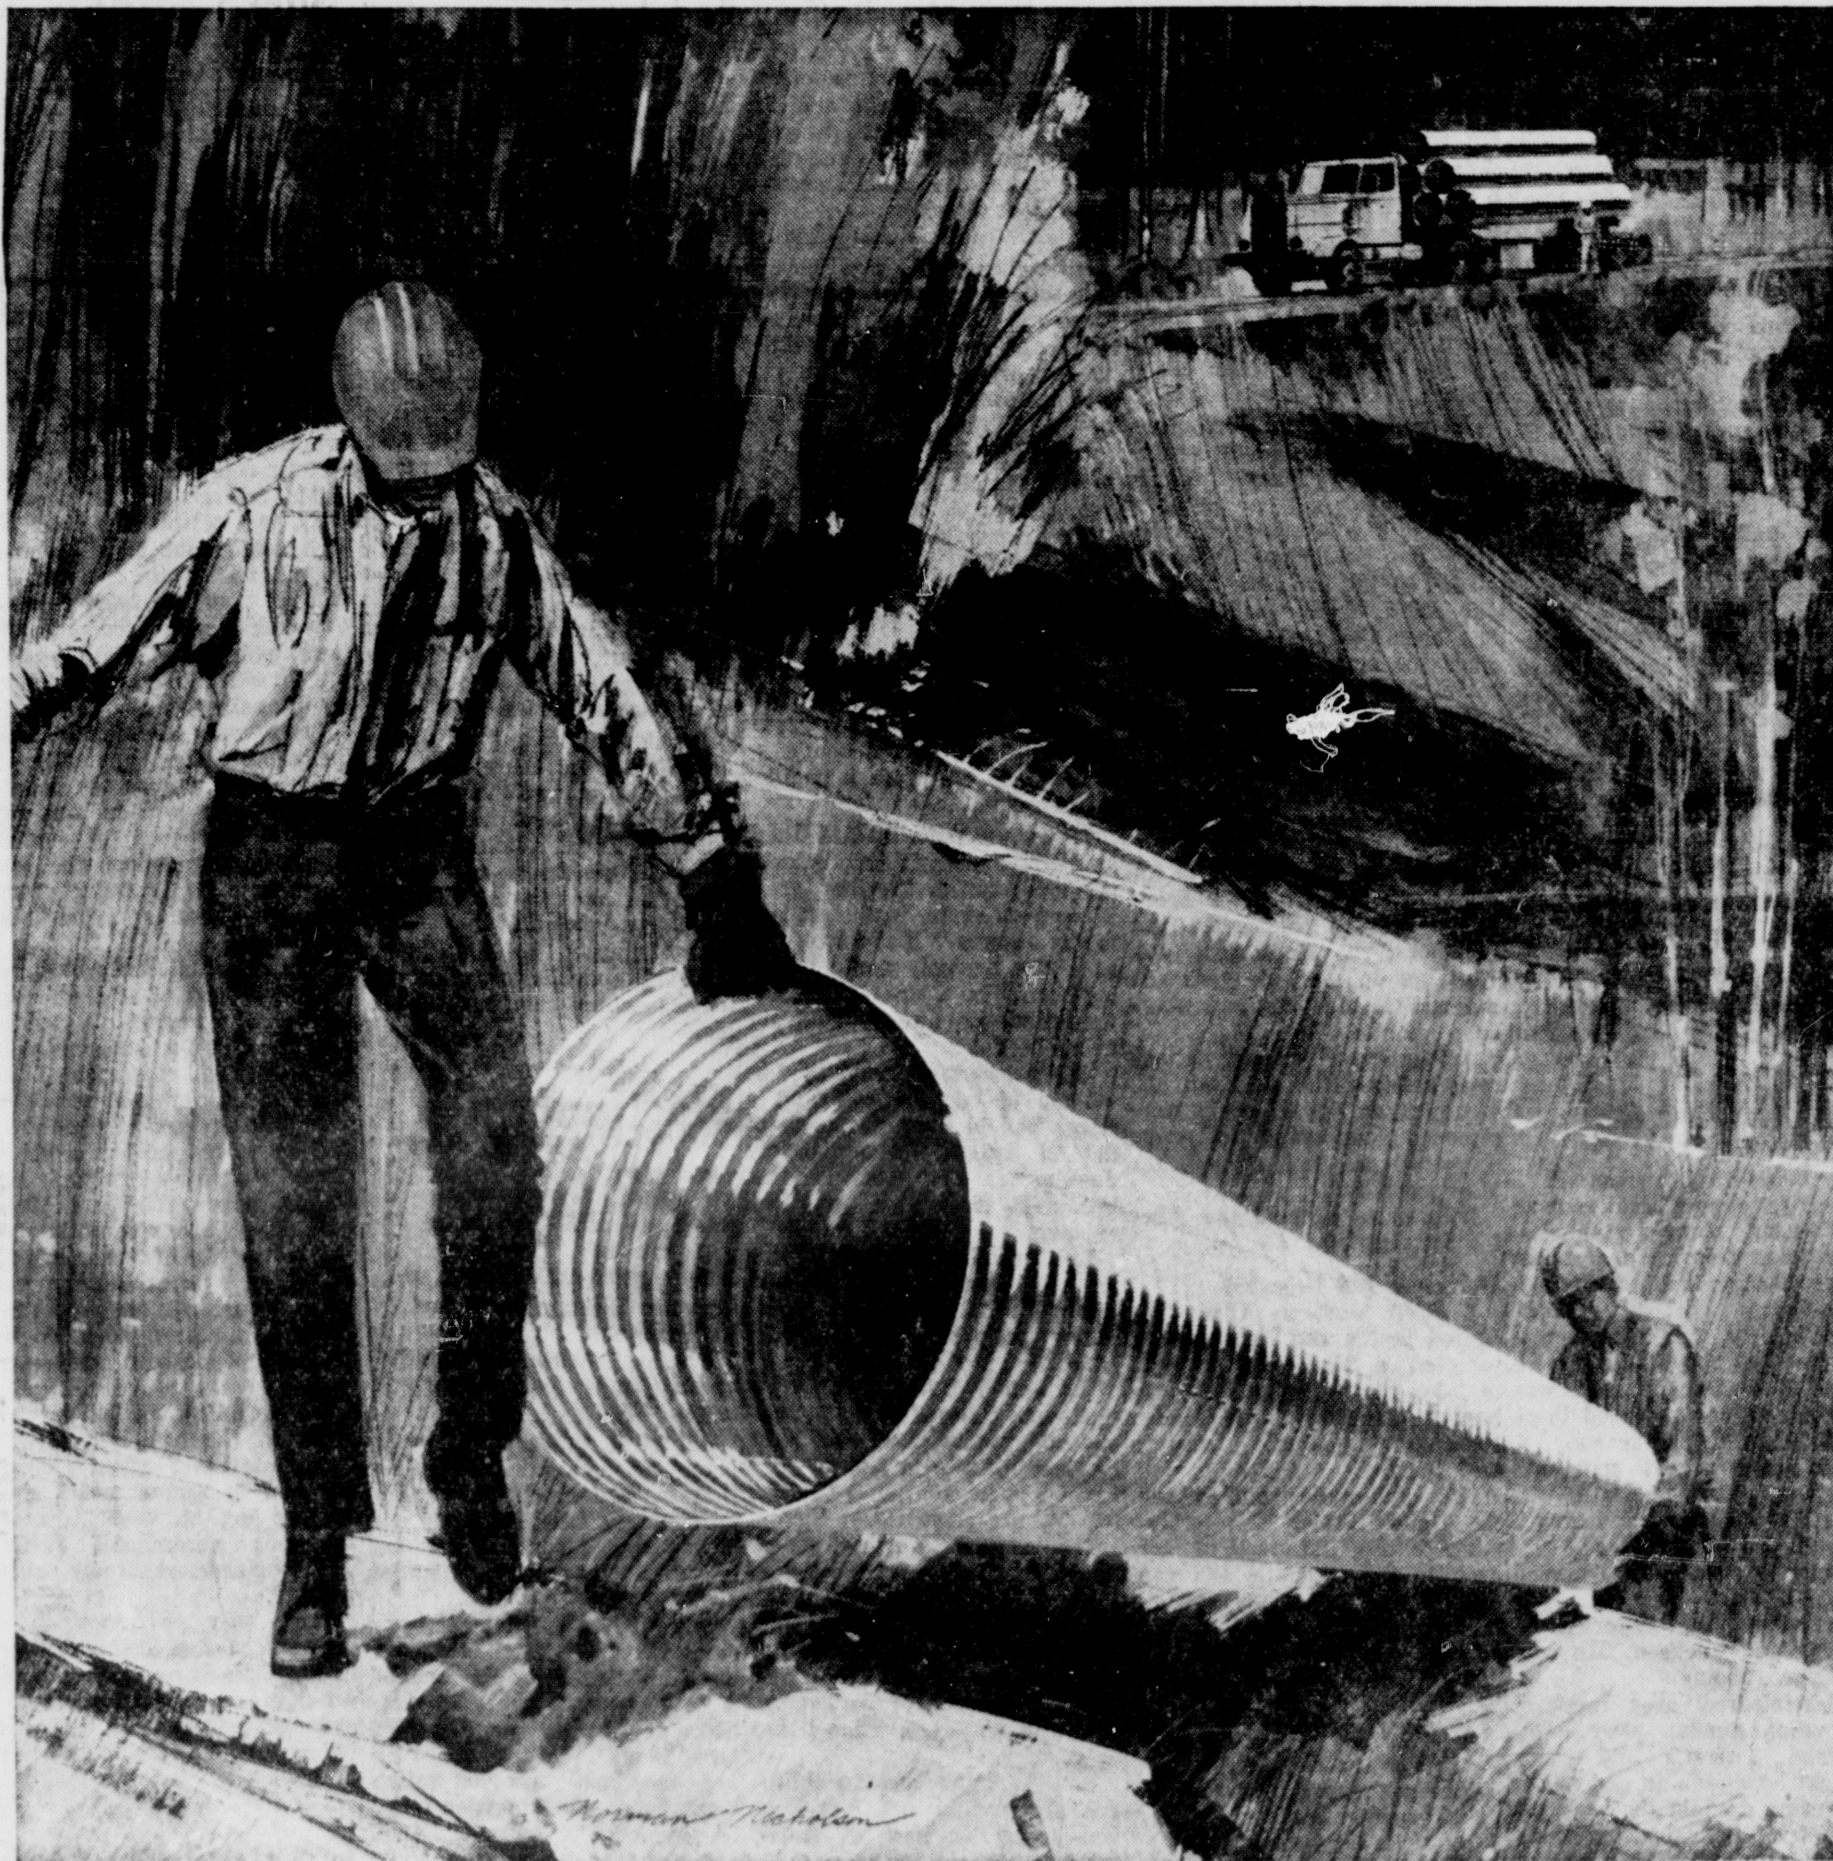

State police said an investigation into dope-taking on campus was started several weeks ago at the request of Brandeis officials. They said more arrests were expected Monday.

HANDLE CULVERT BY HAND?...ANYWHERE?

Until a year ago, what you see here couldn't happen. Culvert weighed so much that lifting equipment was needed to load it, unload it, and place it in a trench.

But today, men alone can easily handle large pipes like the 24-inch by 20-foot section shown above — new aluminum culvert developed by KAISER ALUMINUM. It weighs only 159 pounds, compared to 500 pounds for the same size steel culvert.

This new product was developed by following the two basic steps our corporation takes to serve its customers: First, find a need — in this case the need for reduced culvert weight to simplify handling (frequently an important cost factor in road construction) and improved corrosion resistance.

Second, fill it — we engineered new, light aluminum culvert; subjected it to structural and corrosion testing to prove that it can carry loads and outlast other culvert materials; pioneered its acceptance for state highways; secured a specification from the American Association of State Highway Officials; and made light aluminum culvert pipe available in any size, any gauge, anywhere in the country.

Find a need. Fill it. With this way of working, KAISER ALUMINUM is contributing more useful product innovations — and giving more customers better service — every day.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(c 1963; By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ K 5 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ Q J 5 ♣ K 7 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♦ Double Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—There is a fair prospect for going places with this hand, and a response is recommended which is apt to keep partner interested, namely one no trump. Had the clubs been spades or hearts the suit would be shown first with the intention of trying no trump later.

Q. 2—You are South, have 60 part score, and hold:

♠ A J 9 5 ♥ 7 ♦ A Q 10 8 3 ♣ A 10 9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 4 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has made an urgent plea for slam. The bid of three hearts would have been over score and thus a slam try, partner has made it more emphatic by bidding four, conveying the suggestion that his heart suit is self-sustaining. You should cooperate by bidding five clubs, denoting possession of the ace, and permit partner to fix the final contract.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ 10 8 6 5 ♥ K J 7 6 ♦ 5 3 ♣ K J 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♦ 1 ♥ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You haven't enough for a penalty double, and your hand is not good enough for a free bid of one no trump, which denotes a good hand. If partner cannot act again, you will not have missed anything.

Q. 4—Partner has opened with one club and you hold:

♠ 10 8 5 2 ♥ 8 6 5 3 ♦ Q 7 5 ♣ A 4

What is your response?

A.—One diamond. We try to avoid responses in major suits with such unbidable holdings, particularly when an alternate response is available. The double, and your hand is not good enough for a free bid of one no trump, which denotes a good hand. If partner cannot act again, you will not have missed anything.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♥ K J 9 7 4 ♦ Q J 8 6 3 ♣ K Q 9

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

2 ♥ 2 ♠ 3 ♥ Pass

4 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Five clubs. You have not yet done full justice to the holding in view of the fact that your partner opened the bidding and made a free rebid at the level of two. When you now show club support after having previously announced first round control in spades, partner may be in position to bid a slam.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ K Q 9 8 4 ♥ Q 9 3 ♦ K J 4 ♣ A J 8

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 4 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand is not quite strong enough for a rebid of two no trump. Such a call should be based on a high card holding of at least 15 points.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ 6 ♥ K Q 10 9 4 ♦ A Q 6 3 ♣ A K 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ 1 ♠ 2 ♣ 2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. True enough, bigger things are in sight and on the surface this might appear to be an underbid, but there should be no hurry. Since you are making a free rebid in the face of partner's free response, there is not the remotest danger that the bidding will drop. More specific information may be forthcoming at a lower level as a result of your mild sounding rebid.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ 10 9 ♥ K Q 8 4 2 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ A J 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—To persist further with no trump on such a doubtful diamond stopper would not be discreet. There is a great likelihood that partner has a hand containing six spades and only four clubs. The suggested call, therefore, is a return to three spades.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 17-year-old daughter is causing me a great deal of grief. It is not HER I am concerned about, it's the unfortunate young fellows who become victims of her beauty and charm.

Loretta takes fiendish delight in making a boy fall in love with her. Then she tosses him aside, first making certain that she has reduced him to nothing.

I've seen boys leave our house in tears. Loretta has triumphantly shown me letters from heartbroken young men who can't understand why she has dumped them without warning. She has a fantastic "love-museum" of relics from former sweethearts. It baffles me that she is able to destroy these poor fellows one after the other. I should think the word would get around.

What can I do to strengthen her? No good can come of it.

—MOTHER OF A HEARTLESS GIRL
DEAR MOTHER: Your daughter's destructive personality is a symptom of a serious emotional problem.

The Jezebel is a female counterpart of the Don Juan. Such girls collect hearts the way little boys collect bottle tops.

Unless your daughter gets professional help she may never be capable of a mature relationship with a male.

DEAR ANN: I was just called out of the bathtub with the news that "Grandma and Grandpa are here." This is the fourth time they have dropped in this week.

My parents are both retired and they are the dearest people you can imagine, but it's getting to the point where I can't take it much longer. Sometimes they bring guests with them.

It makes no difference if we are entertaining, sleeping or eating. They come whenever they feel like it. I hate to think of being rude to my own parents but my husband is becoming so irritated that he finds it hard to be civil to them. Last week he was conducting a business meeting in the library and my father barged right in and sat down.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do about this.

—PARENT PROBLEM
DEAR PROBLEM: I will say it one more time: No one (not even parents) should assume the welcome mat is always out and that a visit any old time is O. K.

You should ask your folks to please telephone before they come. If it is not convenient for you to entertain them, tell them so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm so mad I could spit tacks. I've been married for 14 years to a guy who thinks he is still playing tackle for S.M.U.

We have six children. The oldest is 12, the youngest is 4. I've never had a cleaning woman, a laundress or help of any kind. After each one of the babies came I went right from the hospital to the laundry room. I've never had anything resembling a vacation. The kids were always too small to take along or I was pregnant.

So my husband took his annual two week vacations to visit his folks, without me.

Now I have won a contest prize which is a trip to Dallas for one whole week — expenses paid, even the price of a housekeeper. My husband says no married woman should have entered such a contest and if I go it means I am looking for excitement.

I told him I was going to write you and accept your advice. Do I go or not?

—DELLA

DEAR DELLA: Go, Girl, Go. If anyone is entitled to a break, you are. You'll love the Big D. It's a great city.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Purse Says A Lot About You

How often I have seen otherwise smooth grooming crumpled when a woman opened her purse! But I have also seen feminine charm enhanced in the eyes of masculine observers when the open purse showed all the equipment to be neatly disposed and conveniently arranged.

The Powers Girls have perfected a handbag filing system that precludes the possibility of its ever detracting from their womanly appeal.

Bills, change, license, charge plates, cards, etc., fit into a combination-type wallet. Spotlessly kept and daintily looking makeup is arranged in a commodious cosmetic kit with sufficient pockets and separations to store every necessity including small flacons of cleanser, foundation and perfume, a compact, containers of rouge, eyeshadow and mascara, a lipstick brush, miniature hair brush and comb, folded tissues and a pill box.

Add to this a wafer-thin key case, an eyeglass case, small notebook with pencil attached for engagements and reminders, and you'll never again present the flustered comic picture of a woman digging frantically and fruitlessly in a handbag.

The models prefer a type of handbag that is wide enough to accommodate their containers side by side so that each can be found instantly. A super note of discrimination is sounded in matching colors and material to co-ordinate with your favorite purse.

The structure will be of concrete block, 40 by 70 feet, and will have an artificial stone-faced front. It is to be built on Douglas Avenue in the rear of the present fire house, which will later be dismantled.

Commissioner Zarger reported a new street light had been installed on Furnace Street at the request of residents there.

Unit Assumes Dental Care

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The responsibility for dental services for about 2,600 persons at six state institutions has been taken over by the State Health Department.

In a joint announcement, State Health Director N. H. Dyer and State Institutions Commissioner Chauncey Browning Jr., said the change, effective Friday, would apply to the Boys Industrial School at Pruntytown; Boys Forestry Camp at Davis, Tucker County; Moundsville Penitentiary; Huttonsville Medium Security Prison; Pinecrest Sanitarium, Beckley, and Denmar State Hospital, near Marlinton, Pocahontas County.

The two also announced plans to establish a central lab at an institution which will be selected later to be used to train inmates as dental technicians.

The agencies plan to expand dental treatment services for all state institutions by providing dental assistants and using this service to train women from women's institutions.

Personnel from private dental labs have volunteered to help with the training program, they said.

AUDITIONED FOR TV — Miss Brenda Taylor, of Keyser, and her dancing partner, Donnie Keckley, of Romney, who scored a hit in the recent Mineral County centennial pageant, have been chosen through auditions conducted in New York City, to appear on the Ted Mack Amateur Show which will be carried on television in this area. Miss Taylor, a 15-year-old student at Keyser High School, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor Carskadon Lane. Keckley, 16, is a high school student in Romney, where he resides with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Maphis. The two have been dancing together for about three years. The number which they did for their audition was a repeat of the leopard and hunter routine, choreographed for them by Nina and Emmett Oldfield, with whom they have studied for a number of years.

What Did Tito Get From Us?

Whatever else President Tito's visit to the United States may have achieved, it cannot be scored as a triumph in public relations. The odds were against the Yugoslav Red from the start.

First of all, he arrived amid preliminary skirmishing for a Presidential nomination, a period of vulnerability for Communists. Senator Goldwater was not hesitant to note his presence.

Then Tito became conveniently ill and his proposed tour of the country had to be canceled. He would most certainly have learned the extent and nature of the esteem in which Americans hold him.

The severest cut, however, was delivered by Tito's own foreign minister, who declared New York's police department incapable of providing adequate security. This sort of public defamation of the men who handled Khrushchev and Castro, and prevented the populace from venting its "esteem," was, to put it diplomatically, ill-advised.

Tito managed to say he was convinced his visit will contribute to better understanding and advance peaceful international cooperation. He failed to elaborate for the benefit of those who cannot see how this would be possible. Tito has already been given handouts of more than $2 billion by Washington.

It may never be disclosed exactly what Tito was promised during his White House conversations. Chances are, however, he left with more than the collection of home movies he seemed so intent on taking.

Alex Rorke Disappearance

This is a story that is hard to write, for it is about someone who had become a good friend. Alexander Rorke Jr., the friend in question, is missing somewhere in the Caribbean region, along with his aircraft pilot, Geoffrey Sullivan. The two may be alive in some jungle in Honduras or on some self-imposed infiltration mission in Castro's Cuba, or they may be dead—or, as one must hope, they may be safely returned to the U. S. by the time this column is in print. In any case, Alex Rorke, a brave man if there ever was one, should have some tribute.

The trouble with Alex is that he took freedom seriously. He had a vast number of friends among anti-Castro Cubans, and he wanted them to recover their country. He also had a family tradition to uphold—the tradition of fighting to forestall the triumph of Communism anywhere and everywhere it happens to threaten. His father, Alexander Rorke Sr., formerly an Assistant District Attorney of New York County, indicted the original founders of the American Communist Party back in 1917, and Alex took his own anti-Communist mission as a filial duty. No doubt with considerable brassness, Alex felt it was morally right and necessary to carry on the battle against the Communist enemy even when the U. S. State Department, in pursuit of a "relaxation" of tensions, opposed it.

Alex was never the soul of discretion, which he regarded as a namby-pamby virtue. It was only a few short weeks ago that he sat in my living room in Cheshire, Conn., and outlined his hopes for helping his Cuban friends recapture Cuba. His pilot, Geoff Sullivan, who lives just over the hill from Cheshire in the neighboring city of Waterbury, was with him. The two had relinquished the idea that the U. S. would ever again be willing to permit anybody to mount raids on Cuba from Florida. But they persisted in hanging on to the prospect that the Cubans might be helped to build up an invasion force somewhere in Central America.

They wanted to be in on the overthrow of Castro if and when it should be permitted to happen. But to be of tangible assistance to the Cubans in Central America, Alex and Geoff Sullivan had first to recover a power boat and a good airplane which the U. S. government had confiscated because of suspicions that they had been used against Castro from Florida bases. To press the issue against the government, which refused to prefer any formal charges against him yet refused to return his property, Alex needed money.

Alex's plan was to rent a plane and, with Sullivan at the controls, to engage in an import-export business in the Caribbean area. The two were sanguine that money could be made by bringing tanks of rare tropical fish back to the U. S. for private aquariums. By carrying valuable quick cargo, Alex hoped to get enough money to continue the time payments on his sequestered boat, the Violynn III, and his sequestered plane and to pay for legal advice about getting them back.

Alex didn't think the government could prove that he had violated any law. But he was willing—and anxious—to take the risk of being proved guilty. He would never admit to me that he and Sullivan had taken off from mainland America on their flight which resulted in an unsuccessful bombing on Havana oil installations. But, no matter what the question of his guilt or innocence, he wanted a trial in order to compel certain U. S. officials to take the stand. He wanted them to submit to relevant questioning about the State Department policy of clamping down on private citizens whose sin is that they have taken our promises to the Cuban Bay of Pigs veterans seriously.

When last heard from, Alex and his pilot had re-fueled a rented plane at the island of Cozumel off the coast of Yucatan. They had with them a Cuban whose name has been given as Garcia. They took off in the evening, at a dangerous hour, and have not been heard from in a month. They could be drowned, or they could have fallen into the hands of Castroites. Who knows?

Admittedly, Rorke and Sullivan are—or were—romantics. But when America ceases to produce such romantics, its doom will have been sealed. A search should be organized for them and, regardless of official opinion about their common sense, carried through.

Slow Pace Of Congress Cripples Government

WASHINGTON

The civil rights bill has been rescued from the strange coalition of its most ardent friends and its bitterest enemies.

Until the last ditch, the ultra-liberals and the Southern segregationists of the House Judiciary Committee fought side by side for an extreme measure that could not pass. But the committee's senior Republican member, Rep. William McCulloch, courageously intervened to rescue the bill, bringing along Rep. John Lindsay of New York and others. The next hurdle is therefore the House Rules Committee.

Some time must pass before the next hurdle can be vaulted. According to the best current estimates, another fortnight will elapse before the majority and minority reports of the House Judiciary Committee can be laid before the Rules Committee.

After that, the Rules Committee's antediluvian chairman, Rep. Howard W. Smith, will no doubt be leisurely about hearing the testimony of members of Congress who wish to say something before the civil rights bill is sent to the floor. There may well be more than two score Congressional witnesses.

Because of the national-minded bi-partisanship displayed by Rep. McCulloch, favorable action by the Rules Committee seems to be assured—in the end. But the end seems most unlikely to come before the last days of November. And after the Rules Committee sends the bill to the House floor, the House must also take action before the bill proceeds to the Senate.

It is a good bet, therefore, that the civil rights bill will not reach the Senate before the first week in December. In that case, passage of a civil rights bill this year will be virtually out of the question. No amount of pressure will overcome the inevitable Southern filibuster and secure the necessary vote for cloture before the Senate's Christmas recess on December 20.

This cloud ought to have a silver lining, to be sure, if only there were more logic in Congressional procedures. The tax reduction bill is already in the hands of the Senate Finance Committee. In normal circumstances, the slow pace of the civil rights bill ought to leave an opening for December passage of the tax bill.

By Joseph Alsop

By any practical test, moreover, passing the tax bill is probably a more useful step to take in the present civil rights crisis than passing the civil rights bill itself. Among other things, the tax bill is specifically designed to create more jobs, and more jobs are the most urgent Negro need today.

Unhappily, the silver lining is pretty certain not to materialize, because the pace of the tax bill is even slower, if anything, than the pace of the civil rights bill. This great measure has been before

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WORRIED—Kennedy's supporters are becoming increasingly concerned about national political conditions when he seeks a second term in the White House a year from now. A few short months ago, his re-election seemed as close to a certainty as anything can be in political life. Now, the outlook is anything but rosy.

One factor in the gathering gloom in the Kennedy political camp is the surprising following Sen. Barry Goldwater has amassed in a relatively brief period of informal campaigning. The phenomenon is attributed, at least in part, to spreading disillusionment over the quality of the Kennedy leadership.

Another factor relates to the inactivity of Congress. This, too, is attributed to a general sensing that the public is becoming disenchanted with Kennedy—and that it may be politically profitable to oppose rather than to support his program.

But perhaps the factor of greatest concern is something that is now no more than a cloud on the horizon. It is the economic forecasts for the latter part of 1964. Unless conditions change radically in the next few months, the last half of 1964 could witness a setback in national business activity—and even a recession.

If this should develop coincidentally with election time, things will go rough with the President's re-election aspirations. Historically, the administration in a national election year has been held accountable for the national business climate. Next year will be no exception.

A business recession would hit particularly hard at Kennedy's political chances because he and his top aides have made so much of their efforts to lift the economy and promote economic growth. It would be interpreted as prima facie evidence that the Kennedy approach has not worked. And the political opposition would have plenty of ammunition to press their argument that 1964 is the time for a change.

New Capillary Test To Discover Pre-Diabetic

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Various clues suggest that an individual is a candidate for diabetes. It is well known, for example, that diabetic mothers have larger babies than nondiabetic women. The same applies to some women who are likely to develop the disorder in the future.

Dr. Henry T. Ricketts, of the University of Chicago, says 17 per cent of those who deliver infants weighing 10 pounds or more become diabetic. The chance is 60 per cent if the newborn weighs 13 pounds. By this, we do not mean that diabetes will come on tomorrow or next year. Twenty-five years may elapse between the birth of these children and the discovery of sugar in the urine.

Other obstetrical abnormalities also warn of impending diabetes in that the incidence of miscarriage and stillbirths is high in this group. Husband's also play a role in that the children of diabetic fathers tend to be heavier at birth than do those of the nondiabetic.

The malady is inherited and if both parents have the disease, all their children will be expected to develop the condition, provided they live long enough. Statistics show this is not always true, as the figures are closer to 30 or 40 per cent.

Several tests are available to uncover the pre-diabetic. The newest centers about the discovery of capillary abnormalities that are present not only in those with diabetes but in those who are likely to get the disease in the future. These vessels are visible in the eye but are recognized with greater accuracy by removing a piece of skin or muscle and studying the capillaries under the electron microscope.

The method may prove more accurate than blood tests, which are done to determine the way in which the body handles sugar given by mouth. Abnormal responses are noted in the diabetic and pre-diabetic.

TOMORROW: The urge to over-eat.

ABNORMAL CURVES

S. J. B. writes: X-rays show I have curvature of the spine. How serious is this condition?

Abnormal curvature of the spine disturbs the weight bearing line of the body. There is strain on the back, muscles, and other structures when they attempt to compensate for the abnormal posture. Occasionally, the feet suffer, especially when the weight of the body is shifted forward, backward, or to the side.

Tuesday Elections Are Barometer Of President's Chances For 1964

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Within the next 36 hours John F. Kennedy will be able to read a fairly accurate barometer of how much re-election opposition he will face in November 1964. The barometer will be in the form of city and state elections in which Republicans, more hopeful as a result of civil rights infighting among Democrats and a possible Washington Profumo scandal, will do their best to knock the Democrats for a loop.

Traditionally the signs of defeat or victory can be detected in mid-term elections one year in advance, sometimes two years in advance. That was why the President worked so hard in last year's Congressional elections and came out amazingly well.

But next week it may be a different story. Here is the roll call of key election battles and how they are likely to turn out:

Kentucky — Republicans, who recently elected a Louisville mayor for the first time in 30 years, are campaigning all-out to elect Louis B. Nunn as governor in this normally Democratic state. They are encouraged by the Democratic split between Gov. Best Combs and the ebullient ex-governor Happy Chandler.

However, Happy's bitter attack on three of his old friends, Joe Leary, Henry Lee Waterfield, and Mac Walters, for supporting the Democratic candidate, Ned Breathitt, has soured a lot of Chandlerites, and the chances are strong that the Democratic ticket will win.

Philadelphia — This will be the most important JFK barometer in the nation. For 11 years Philadelphia has been under Democratic mayors after some 75 years of Republican rule. Two of the Democrats, Sen. Joe Clark and Richard Dilworth, injected new vitality into the elderly and somewhat decrepit city.

But Mayor James H. J. Tate, who inherited the job when Dilworth retired to run for governor, has been a hard-luck executive and the big 331,000 majority which swung the tide to Kennedy in 1960 has dwindled until it's now anybody's race.

This time the Republicans have divided the heavy Catholic vote by running James T. McDermott against Tate, thus putting two Irish Catholics against each other. Whichever wins, this will be the first time a Catholic has been elected mayor of the Quaker City.

Latest hard luck to befall Tate has been a picket line of firemen, demanding higher pay and for a time proposing to wear Ku Klux Klan hoods to prevent their identification.

It's anybody's race in Philadelphia but whoever wins, the 331,000 margin by which Kennedy won last time will evaporate.

San Francisco — This is another test case of Democratic strength in a state which Kennedy has to win to get re-elected. Here Jack Shelly, a popular Democratic Congressman and former head of the Teamsters, had gone home expecting a walk-away victory. Just the opposite has been the case.

Harold Dobbs, Republican, serving as acting mayor under George Christopher, has made surprising headway, and the race could go either way tomorrow.

Mississippi — For the first time since Reconstruction days, the Republicans are seriously pushing a candidate: Rubel Phillips, a Goldwater conservative with plenty of Texas oil money behind him.

Mississippi elections don't usually mean much. The battle is between Democratic factions in the primary. But this time Democrats are snapping out of their November lethargy to vote for Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, an unconstructed segregationist, who won headlines in the "Ole Miss" dispute. He will undoubtedly win—which will be no victory for Kennedy.

The Texas Right Wing

In the two Congressional races, the Republicans will win with Albert W. Johnson in the 23rd District of Pennsylvania; while the Democrats will capture the seat of liberal Democrat Homer Thornberry of Austin, Tex.

The interesting phase of this race will be how much support is rolled up by Frank B. McGehee, an organizer of the National Indignation Convention and one of the recent heckles of Adlai Stevenson in Dallas. McGehee is now running for Congress. So is Jim Dobbs, former "Life Line" employee of right-wing oilman, H. L. Hunt.

However, the two top Texas candidates will probably be J. J. Pickle, a conservative backer of Vice President Johnson, and Jack Ritter, backed by Negro-labor and liberal voters. There will be a runoff.

These are the key races to watch tomorrow. On their outcome will depend how much of a battle John F. Kennedy faces one year from this week.

Municipal Merry-Go-Round

Here is how other city elections shape up around the nation: Mayor John Collins, Democrat, will be re-elected in Boston . . . Mayor J. Bracken Lee, ultra right-wing Republican, will be re-elected in Salt Lake City . . .

Democrat Mayor Richard C. Lee will win again in New Haven . . . Mayor Lewis W. Cutler, a Democrat, will be re-elected for a fourth term as mayor of Houston . . .

In Akron, Ohio, Mayor Edward O. Erickson, Democrat, is expected to win over Evan J. Ward, Republican . . . The race in Indianapolis is close between Republican Clarence T. Drayer and Democrat John J. Barton, the former chief of state police . . .

In Columbus, Ohio, Maynard Sensesbrenner, Democratic mayor for two previous terms, is expected to stage a comeback over the Republican incumbent, Ralston Westlake.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Death has replaced sex as a topic. Why? I do not know. Wherever I go, people are discussing who has shuffled off. Any death more than two hours old isn't worth mentioning. There are new best sellers on the subject of death. They assert that our funerals are wild. Too much too late, you might say.

Well, I go along with my father's credo. He says that dying is something he has reserved as the last thing he wants to do. Still, like millions of others, he reads the obituary notices as a tout reads a form chart. Some women even make a game of it. "Guess who died? You'd never guess." I'm afraid to say "Me?" for fear they'd say: "Somebody told you."

Most of my friends who used to fear such mild malaise as leprosy and beri-beri are now all converted to cancer. If you don't know more about cancer than a doctor, no one invites you to dinner. It is not only important to be knowledgeable about wild cells versus normal cells, but also to understand the operable from the inoperable.

Stopping in at Jim Sullivan's Saloon in Sea Bright is like attending a rehearsal of Doctor Kildare. They tell me that the bartenders are this close to discovering a cure. A few more belts of Grand Old Garbage and they'll have it. We had some guests for dinner and, before they arrived, my wife removed the flowers from the table. "Might scare them," she said.

I know two young couples—not one, but two—who put down payments on cemetery plots before they put one down on a house. I sent a note to my lawyers, Greenbaum, Wolff and Ernst asking about my tax bill. The loveliest member of the firm, Harriet Pipel, sent a reply: "To coin a phrase," she wrote, "taxation without representation is tyranny. Have the enclosed witnessed and notarized. It's your will."

So how do I feel? I feel like an astronaut. I know I'm going somewhere, but I don't know where or for how long. I'm in no particular hurry, but everyone is pushing to get me off the pad.

Socially, you are dead (excuse the expression) unless you can either discuss cancer or have it. The late movies are full of handsome actors who are dead. If I say I like Edie Adams, someone is bound to reply: "Poor Ernie Kovacs." President Eisenhower was a national hero when he had his heart attack. He lost support when he double-crossed the world by recovering, and becoming stronger than before.

I have studied the death rates in America for the year 1900 to the year 1960, but I can't use them as conversation pieces because they are too hopeful. Come to think of it, I could be ostracized for what I know. For example, would you dare to tell even your best friend that, in the year 1900, 1,622 persons out of each 100,000 died; whereas, in 1960, it was only 930?

You'd be cut—pardon me—dead. Good news can be mortifying. I have a lady relative who has been running to her doctor every week for two years and he hasn't even reached the point of telling her what for. She is not interested in healthy people. On the other hand, she is most solicitous of those who have one foot in the you-know-what.

One day I tried to explain a few facts about cancer to her. She's been trying so hard to get it that she forgot how to spell it. "There are a hundred and eighty million persons in the United States," I said, "and about eight-tenths of one percent die each year."

"Oh God," she moaned. "Why did you have to tell me?" Think nothing of it, I said. Eight-tenths of one percent comes to only 1,700,000 or thereabouts. "But look at the happy side," I said, "Only 540,000 people die of cancer of all types. What the heck—this is only three-tenths of one percent."

She sank to a couch. Her mouth was open. The lady was stout and she looked like a cod with lipstick. It was obvious that she was going to have a stroke. "On the other hand," I said, "$928,000 people die of cardiovascular disease, and a stroke is in that group." The woman popped to her feet. "More," I said, "than die of cancer." She begged me to go. I left. She had been flattened by a statistic.

It was early. So I went home. My wife said "How about a good movie?" I looked them up in the newspaper. Nothing sounded enticing. "How about a good funeral service?" I said. She shrugged. So I looked up the obituary notices and, sure enough, there was a peach of a wake going on only two towns away.

We attended. And we sat, glowing with the warmth of the occasion, as the poor widow wept on cue. One of the nicest tributes she got was when a girl friend said: "You know he has better color now than when he was sick."

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

Elizabeth and Mary are to have a baby sister. The Cunard Line, operators of the gigantic sea Queens, has just announced it'll build a sister ship, now known only as the Q-4, to be completed by 1967.

Since the Q-4 will be small compared to the 81,000 tons-plus Liz and Mary, a good name for the new craft would be Queen Lil—short for Liliput.

Meanwhile, a postcard arrives from F. E. F., bearing a most thoughtful observation. "I sure hope," he writes, "that those demonstrations sweeping the country do not suddenly turn into demon-strations."

TRI-TOWNS HALL OF FAME INDUCTEES — Five persons who gained distinction in athletics in past years were inducted into the Tri-Towns Sports Hall of Fame at the second annual dinner held yesterday by Victory Post, American Legion, Westernport. Those honored at yesterday's affair are shown above with the plaques they received. They are, left to right: Harold Robertson, baseball; Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, baseball; Joseph "Pepper" Inskeep, baseball; Mike Botamino, soccer, and Clarence "Mickey" McBee, soccer. The first group of five were enrolled in the Tri-Towns Hall of Fame last year. One hundred and fifty persons attended Sunday's dinner at the Westernport Legion home.

Tri-Towns Hall Of Fame Admits Five; Three Major Leaguers Attend Dinner

Barber, Dalrymple And Purkey Speak At Westernport

By TED TROXELL

Five new members were admitted to the Tri-Towns Sports Hall of Fame last night at the second annual banquet sponsored by Victory Post 155, American Legion, of Westernport.

Inducted in the presence of three major league baseball players were three former baseball standouts from the Tri-Towns and two men who made their mark in soccer.

Approximately 150 persons attended the dinner to help honor Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Harold Robertson and Joseph (Pepper) Inskeep, one-time diamond greats, and soccer players Clarence (Mickey) McBee and Mike Botamino.

Present day celebrities at the head table were Steve Barber, southpaw pitcher who won 20 games for the Baltimore Orioles this past season, righthander Bob Purkey of the Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies catcher Clay Dalrymple.

Welfare Fund Benefits
Last night's honorees join five of their Tri-Towns neighbors in the Hall of Fame, which was established last year by the Westernport Legion. Proceeds from the annual dinners benefit the post's welfare fund program.

The trio of major leaguers entertained the guests with humorous anecdotes, and two of them—Barber and Purkey—had some serious remarks for the many youngsters in attendance.

Members of the Westernport team which won the championship of the Bi-State Pony Baseball League were special guests, and coach Pete Ladygo's Bruce High School football squad was well represented.

Barber told the young athletes that "the league of life is the toughest one you'll ever play in," and urged them to "develop your ability to the fullest and always give all you have."

Along similar lines, Purkey told the boys who desire to become major leaguers to "play the game and put everything you have into it," adding, "Anything worth doing is worth doing right!"

Stan Musial Praised
The former Pittsburgh Pirate hurler, who witnessed Stan Musial's official farewell as an active player on the final day of the season in St. Louis, had high praise for "The Man" both as a player and a person. "I still get a little choked up when I think of that farewell scene," Bob declared.

Kenneth K. Lowe, who served as toastmaster, presented Mrs. Clay Dalrymple with a corsage. The attractive wife of the Philadelphia receiver said she came in John Callison's stead.

Callison, a hard-hitting Phillies outfielder, was scheduled to come here with the Dalrymples, but Mrs. D. explained, "He (Callison) can sometimes disappear from the face of the earth."

James Wills, who served with

Milton (Hefty) Newlon as chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner, presided over the Hall of Fame induction and gave brief summaries of the new members' athletic achievements.

Hall of Fame plaques were presented by Philmore Fleming, vice commander of the Maryland Department of the American Legion.

A posthumous award was made in memory of William (Bill) Loudon, first Tri-Towns resident to play in the major leagues. The award was accepted by Mr. Lou-den's niece, Mrs. Ann Stevenson, Piedmont city commissioner.

Five Charter Members
Charter members of the Hall of Fame are Frank Patrone, John (Chip) Grindie, Don Moran, Leo Ryan and William (Huck) Miers.

Rev. Thomas Fannon, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Westernport, gave the invocation and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Sumner D. Sawyers.

Barber, Purkey and Dalrymple participated in a question-and-answer session which closed out the program.

Dallas Defeats Redskins, 35-20

DALLAS (AP)—Mike Gaechter and Cornell Green intercepted passes to set up touchdowns, a fumble recovery set up another and a 52-yard kick off return by Amos Bullocks led to a fourth Sunday as the Dallas Cowboys beat the Washington Redskins 35-20.

Don Meredith, the Dallas quarterback, knew what to do with the ball when Dallas got it, too. He passed for four touchdowns and his passing set up the fifth. Two of his touchdown throws were to Lee Folkins and two were to Frank Clarke.

Dallas was finally winning a game in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League. It was Dallas' second victory of the season—the other was over Detroit of the Western Conference.

It also was the first time for Dallas to beat Washington at home.

Washington led Dallas 10-7 at one time, but the Cowboys' adeptness at picking off Norm Snead's passes shot Dallas back ahead. The turning point was an 86-yard run with a pass interception by Gaechter that set up a Dallas touchdown.

A crowd of 18,838 sat under lowering skies in the Cotton Bowl to watch Dallas draw even with Washington at sixth and last place in the Eastern Conference. Each has a 2-6 record.

All told Dallas picked off four passes, three of them on Snead and the other on George Izo. The latter didn't figure in a score, however.

Bobcats Hit Season High, Bag 5th Win

Romney High Loses, Bedford Is Halted

Frostburg State College hit a new high for victories in one season by registering its fifth triumph of the 1963 campaign at the expense of Potomac State College's Catamounts Saturday night at Fort Hill Stadium by the score of 20-7.

The win gave Dr. Ron Van Ryswyk's Bobcats a 5-2 mark for the campaign with games remaining with Grove City, Frederick (Va.) and Georgetown. Since football made its bow at the Frostburg college in 1961 the Bobcats have won eleven and lost eleven games for a .500 mark. Last year FSC posted a 4-4 record and broke in with 2-5 in 1961.

Potomac took a 7-6 lead in the first half of Saturday's game but FSC scored touchdowns in the third and final periods for its victory.

Charley Robinson accounted for two Frostburg scores on runs of 21 and one yard. Wayne Harper scored the final touchdown on a 7-yard sprint in the final quarter. Dick Brenneman kicked both extra points.

Potomac State, which suffered its 6th loss in seven outings, scored in the second period on a two-yard run by Burt Holcomb. Nick Lapcevic converted from placement.

In other Saturday engagements, Romney High School dropped a 32-21 decision to the Farmington Farmers in its homecoming game while the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf of Mt. Airy handed the West Virginia School for the Deaf an eight consecutive defeat, 32-0 at Romney, and Moorefield (1-7-1) won up its season by battling Berkeley Springs High School's Indians to a scoreless tie at Moorefield.

Bedford High School's Bisons had their seven-game victory string snapped by Westmont High School in a 19-13 battle at Johns town.

Coach Earl Hersh's Westminster High School Owls (7-0-1) remained in the unbeaten class by defeating Delone Catholic High School at McSherrystown, Pa., 14-7. Westminster's remaining games are with Frederick and Brooklyn Park, Md.

Detroit Clobbers Forty Niners, 45-7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Detroit quarterback Earl Morrall fired four touchdown passes, with Terry Barr grabbing three of them, in a 45-7 victory over San Francisco's faltering 49ers Sunday.

The former Michigan State signal caller and his halfback target from Michigan teamed up to befuddle the 49er defense and scored touchdowns on passes of 10, 21 and 6 yards.

Another Morrall scoring aerial went 10 yards to Tom Watkins, who also scored on a five-yard run. Reserve Nick Ryder plunged over from the two for the final Detroit touchdown. Milt Plum contributed a 26-yard field goal and six conversions in the rout.

Tarkenton Leads Vikings to Win

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP)—Frank Tarkenton rallied sputtering Minnesota to two quick touchdowns early in the second half and the Vikings smothered the Los Angeles Rams the rest of the way to carve out a 21-13 National Football League victory Sunday.

The win snapped a four-game Minnesota losing streak and halted the Rams' modest victory streak at two.

Tarkenton hit five passes in as many attempts for 54 yards in directing a 71-yard Viking scoring drive to open the second half. Minnesota went ahead for good at 14-10 as Tarkenton passed 10 yards to Jerry Reichow.

Less than a minute later, the Vikings had another touchdown. The Rams' Ben Wilson fumbled and Minnesota's Karl Kasulke recovered for the Vikings on Los Angeles' 27-yard line.

On the first play, Tarkenton hit Paul Flatley in the corner of the end zone for a touchdown that raised the Viking margin to 21-10.

All the Rams mustered after that was Danny Villanueva's 40-yard field goal in the fourth period.

Hunting Season Reopens Tuesday In Pennsylvania

Building Of Fires, Smoking Prohibited

EVERETT, Pa. — Hunters may go into the woods to seek game in Pennsylvania beginning tomorrow at 7 a. m., according to John J. Troutman, state game protector for the southeastern part of Bedford County.

Mr. Troutman said last night at his home here that all restrictions on hunting, caused by the long summer drought, have been lifted and the woods are open. The only remaining restrictions on use of the woodlands are "no fires" and "no smoking," Mr. Troutman explained.

The restrictions on building fires and camp fires and on smoking will continue as long as there is danger of setting the dry forest ablaze. He suggested that all hunters observe the regulations and refrain from smoking and building fires, until the danger period has been passed. Heavy penalties can be imposed for those convicted of violating these rulings, he noted.

Bald Bomber Passes Giants To 38-21 Win

Title Fires 4 TD Passes At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Y. A. Tittle threw four touchdown passes, three in the second period, to lead the New York Giants to a 38-21 National Football League victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

Tittle's three second quarter scoring passes matched the total against the Cardinals for the season. The victory gave New York sole possession of second place in the NFL's Eastern Division, a game behind Cleveland.

Charley Johnson, the 24-year-old St. Louis quarterback, passed for two touchdowns and Bill Triplett scored another from the two. But Johnson's two TD passes—each for 13 yards to Joe Childress and Bobby Joe Conrad—couldn't match New York's bald bomber.

In the first half alone, Tittle completed 14 of 19 passes for 246 yards and three touchdowns. His game total was 17 of 28 passes for 295 yards and four TDs. He had one interception.

After Don Chandler's first period field goal, Tittle's second quarter rampage started with a 41-yard touchdown pass to Frank Gifford. He then threw two more to Aaron Thomas, one about nine minutes later for 28 yards and the other with seven seconds left from the one-yard line.

Another 41-yard Tittle pass to Thomas in the end zone in the third period was called back because of holding. But Tittle quickly threw 40 yards to Del Shofner for his fourth touchdown pass.

The Giants added a fifth touchdown in the fourth period when Phil King scored from the one after Erich Barnes intercepted a pass, lateraling to Bill Winter, who returned to the St. Louis six.

Scoring:
NY—FG Chandler 16.
NY—Gifford 41 pass from Tittle (Chandler kick).
St.—Childress 13 pass from Johnson (Bakken kick).
NY—Thomas 28 pass from Tittle (Chandler kick).
NY—Thomas 1 pass from Tittle (Chandler kick).
NY—Shofner 40 pass from Tittle (Chandler kick).
St.—Conrad 13 pass from Johnson (Bakken kick).
NY—Triplett 2 run (Bakken kick).
NY—King 1 plunge (Chandler kick).

Texas, Auburn, Princeton Make Up Dwindling List Of Unbeaten Teams

Pieces Are Beginning To Fall Into Place In Bowl Jigsaw Puzzle

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pieces are beginning to fall into place in college football's intriguing November parlor game—the bowl jigsaw puzzle—but so far there is no really snug fit.

Texas and Auburn, who with Ivy League Princeton make up the Big Ten crown because it plays seven games to six for its main rivals, Ohio State and Michigan State. Ohio State thumped Iowa 7-3 and Michigan State rolled over eighth-ranked Wisconsin 30-13. The only upset in the top ten.

Oklahoma won its 14th straight game in the Big Eight Conference, beating Colorado 35-0.

To qualify for Pasadena, Washington still must beat California, UCLA and Washington State. California upset UCLA Saturday 25-0. Oregon State beat Stanford 10-8 and San Jose State upset Oregon 13-7.

Texas and Baylor apparently are the only teams with a season with 1,420 yards.

The Gator Bowl also will be a chance for the Southwest Conference title. Texas needed a 36-yard field goal and two place kick conversions by shoeless Tony Crosby for its victory over SMU. Don Trull led Baylor to a 32-13 conquest of Texas Christian. Arkansas beat Texas A&M 21-7 and Rice thumped Texas Tech 17-3.

Bowling Green of Ohio fell from the unbeaten and untied ranks, bowing to Miami (Ohio), 21-12.

Tied For Lead
Auburn and Mississippi, with 4-0 records in the league, are tied for the Southeastern Conference lead. Georgia Tech, with the talented Billy Lothridge at quarterback, remains, however, one of the South's most attractive bowl possibilities as does independent Memphis State, the team that tied Mississippi Tech clobbered Duke 30-6 while Memphis State won over Louisville 25-0.

Navy No. 1 In East

Green Bay, Chicago Win, Remain Tied For Western Conference Lead

Packers Notch 7th Straight Over Steelers

Pittsburgh Punished By Bruising Ground Game In 33-14 Jilt

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The mighty Green Bay Packers punished Pittsburgh's defense with a bruising ground game powered by Jim Taylor and set up four field goals by Jerry Kramer Sunday in belting the Steelers 33-14.

It was their seventh straight National Football League victory after an opening-game loss. Taylor Gains 114 Yards Taylor, the 1962 rushing and scoring king, bulled his way for one touchdown and 141 yards in 30 carries as the Packers kept pace with the Chicago Bears, each with 7-1 records, in the Western Division.

Kramer, an All-NFL choice as an offensive guard, booted field goals from 23, 36, 12 and 23 yards out when Green Bay drives stalled. He also contributed four conversions.

Elijah Pitts, a reserve halfback, scored two touchdowns in spelling Tom Moore on brief occasions for the Packers. Pitts tallied on a two-yard burst in the third period and on a one-yard plunge with less than two minutes remaining.

The Steelers stung the Packers with a touchdown after 11 seconds of play. Gary Ballman returned the opening kickoff 93 yards to the Green Bay two and Dick Hoak hit left guard for a touchdown on the initial play from scrimmage.

The Packers then took charge but the best they could do was add three field goals by Kramer before halftime.

Boots Four Goals

Kramer booted his fourth field goal at the outset of the final quarter before the Steelers managed their other touchdown, scored on a 33-yard pass from Ed Brown to Bill Mack in the end zone.

Bears Harass Unitas, Defeat Colts, 17 To 7

Moore As Halfback Scores Baltimore's TD In 3rd Quarter

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP)—The Chicago Bears rode their fortress defense and ball control offense to their seventh victory in eight National Football League games Sunday by a 17-7 score over the Baltimore Colts.

The victory kept the Bears tied with the defending champion Green Bay Packers for the lead in the Western Conference. Unitas Is Harassed

The Chicago defense harassed quarterback Johnny Unitas of the Colts almost to the point of distraction, holding him to a net gain of 15 yards in the first half.

In addition, they intercepted one of his passes which led to one of Chicago's two touchdowns and forced him to fumble when the Colts finally seemed to have caught a spark in the third quarter.

Quarterback Bill Wade of the Bears threw just enough to keep the Bear running attack moving.

The first time Wade passed was to get himself out of a deep hole and it led to a touchdown. Apparently tackled by linebacker Jackie Burkett on his own five Wade threw a safety valve pass across the field to fullback Joe Marconi, who rumbled 63 yards downfield.

Seven plays later, Wade plunged over the goal.

The Bear defense took over. In the second quarter, the Colts had only four plays. They lost 14 yards and the ball on a fumble.

Joe Fortunato intercepted a Unitas pass and returned it to the Colts 25 to set up the other Bear touchdown in the third quarter. Wade lobbed a pass to fullback Rick Casares, who carried it in from the 16-yard line. Lenny Moore Scores

Halfback Lenny Moore, playing tight halfback for the first time this season, gave the Colts their only offensive punch in the third quarter. He reeled off a 17-yard gain and then sprinted 25 more for the first touchdown scored by the Colts against the Bears in their last three games.

The Bears consumed most of the time in the last quarter on a steady ground march from their 24 to the Colt five where they finally were halted. Roger Leclerc then kicked a field goal.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Washington, D. C.
October 28, 1963

Dear Friends:

REASSURING WORDS — "There is nothing wrong with America that the faith, love of freedom, intelligence and energy of her citizens cannot cure." — Dwight D. Eisenhower, August 1963.

TAX-DEDUCTION BILL: SENATE HEARINGS — The tax-cut bill which passed the House of Representatives is now the subject of public hearings before the Senate Finance Committee. Senator Harry Byrd (Democrat, of Virginia) has served notice that he will not be stampeded into hasty consideration of the bill. He can be expected to follow his long-established practice of giving most thorough study to all features of all tax bills. It is known that the committee chairman is not happy with the failure of the House to incorporate in the tax-reduction measure provisions for cuts in Federal spending. Senator Byrd, like many other Senators, feels that any tax cut should be accompanied by spending cuts.

The professed purpose of the bill is to improve the economy. Treasury Secretary Dillon emphasized this point in testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee when he laid stress on the provision reducing levies on capital gains. However, at the Senate hearings last week, Secretary Dillon, representing the Kennedy Administration's position, reversed himself, saying the Administration now would like to eliminate the provision reducing levies on capital gains. What is the present argument for the cut, then? It is this: More after-tax money means more buying power for consumers and investors. This, however, is true only if that money retains its value. This is not likely unless Government spending is cut. Inflation is bound to follow any tax cut without a cut in Government spending.

How much of a tax cut would the average taxpayer get? About 40 million Federal income taxpayers, or two-thirds of the total, make less than $6,000 a year. Under the bill as it passed the House, the average married couple with two children receiving an income of $4,000 a year would save about $6.65 a month; with an income of $5,000, the saving per family would be about $8 per month. And with inflation, every dollar of the family's income would have less purchasing power.

Incidentally, the 40 million taxpayers with incomes of less than $6,000 pay income taxes totaling about 10 billion dollars a year, which is approximately the amount of the interest on the Federal debt. In other words, the taxes which two-thirds of this Nation's taxpayers turn over to Uncle Sam are required for paying just the interest on the debt. And still, there are those, including some Members of Congress, who want to reduce taxes without reducing expenditures, thus increasing the debt and the interest on it.

A tax cut is long overdue, but let us do it the right way.

I understand that some 115 witnesses plan to testify on the tax cut and Federal spending before the Senate Finance Committee. Thus, the committee is not likely to finish its work on the tax measure before the end of November, at best. As a matter of fact, a determined effort may be made to have the committee extend its hearings until after the President submits his new budget in January, which would give the committee and the Senate and the general public a chance to see if President Kennedy's promise to cut expenditures is serious.

FOREIGN AID: ONE PLACE TO ECONOMIZE—When we talk of reducing Federal spending so that we can make ends meet, the question is sometimes asked: What item of expenditure would you reduce? An obvious place to start saving money and show concern for our taxpayers is on the item called "foreign aid." We have handed out some 100 billion dollars on foreign aid since 1946—and much of this has been wasted. In several issues of "Senate Cloakroom", I have given illustrations of how foreign aid money has been misspent and have shown how futile the program has been. I have gone on record as favoring a cut of at least 20% this year and cuts each succeeding year until we are completely rid of this monstrous waste.

The foreign aid authorization bill passed by the House will come up for consideration on the Senate floor within a few days. The House was widely praised for its courage—in the face of pressures from "the liberal spenders"—in making substantial cuts. Let us hope that the Senate will demonstrate the same brand of courage and consideration for the American taxpayer.

The original motives for the foreign aid program were well meaning. But things didn't work out right. The United States found itself arming governments which used the arms to repress their people; arming, equipping and financing policies and regimes which are contrary to our own basic convictions; giving economic aid which did not result in economic growth. Fantastic is the history of our foreign aid blunders in India, Poland, Yugoslavia, Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, Brazil, Egypt, Algeria, Indonesia. Our foreign aid has strengthened Communism both indirectly and directly on numerous fronts. Your tax dollars have been used to help Algerian Dictator Ben Bella and Yugoslavian Dictator Tito, both Communists. Your tax dollars have been used to create 30 millionaires in Laos, now controlled by Communists. Your tax dollars have been used to strengthen race segregation in Liberia, where now no one of the Caucasian race can hold office, and where, incidentally, the Liberian President used $12,000,000 of foreign aid money to build himself a marble palace. Your tax dollars have been used to provide Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie with a $2,000,000 yacht.

Nearly half of all foreign aid money goes for so-called military assistance. Whom are we arming the recipient countries to fight? Each other? (Are we not now financing both sides in the war between Morocco and Algeria?) Why all this lavish, spendthrift throwing away of money? Is it because we think we can afford it? We are sending money to countries better off than we are. The United States' public debt is $24,000,000,000 greater than the combined public debts of all the nations we're aiding.

Is it any wonder that misgivings over foreign aid continue to grow on Capitol Hill and throughout the country?

CUBA: A CALL TO ACTION—On October 22, the anniversary of President Kennedy's statement to the American people about the unmistakable evidences of Soviet buildup in Cuba and his "call to action," I joined with Senator Allott of Colorado and 13 other Senators in a joint declaration calling for definite and meaningful action now. Noting that, despite the bold words of the President a year ago, Cuba remains a Soviet military base and is being exploited as a base for subversion and infiltration, our declaration proposed certain steps:

—The encouragement of the formation of a Provisional Government of Cuba, the extension of U. S. recognition, and the offer of a territorial base at Guantanamo Naval Station;
—The re-institution of a blockade against Soviet arms;
—The use of the blockade to nullify the use of Castro's Cuba as a base for Communist penetration in Latin America;
—The penalizing of all free nations still engaged in Cuban trade and traffic, by suspending U. S. aid and denying use of U. S. facilities to the ships and planes of such nations;
—The offering of Freedom Bounties to Cuban and Soviet defectors;

—the definite planning and preparation for the ultimate restoring of Cuba to the community of free nations.
RUSSIA'S DEBT TO US—Russia's debt to us for lend-lease was $10,800,000,000. We wrote off $8,200,000,000. Now, Russia owes us $2,600,000,000, which she refuses to pay. Apropos of the wheat deal discussion, Russia's Lenin once said: "The Capitalist World would be willing to sell to the Communists for a profit the rope with which the Communists will hang the Capitalists."

Sincerely yours,
J. GLENN BEALL

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

The opportunity to watch the work of the excavation party, organized by the Corning Museum of Glass in cooperation with Colonial Williamsburg and the Smithsonian Institution, at the site of the New Bremen Glass-manufacturing near Frederick, Maryland was a thrilling experience.

We read of excavations in far off places—revealing the tomb of King Tut in Egypt—or the buried city of Pompeii in southern Italy—but seldom are we privileged to witness an excavation of historical interest practically in our own backyard.

When Frederick Amelung brought a group of German glass-makers to this country from Bremen, Germany in 1784 and established the New Bremen Glass-factory he laid the foundation for a fine tradition in glass making in this country. Several pieces of the rare and historic glass produced in this plant are now preserved in some of our country's finest Art Museums.

The excavations at the Amelung site have revealed much important information on one of our earliest industries. These remains of the 18th Century glassworks should be preserved as a historical shrine.

I propose to introduce a bill in the Congress to make the remains of the Amelung Glass-manufacturing, which are an important part of our early American industrial history a National Historical Site.

I think it is high time the atmosphere of secrecy surrounding the discussion of the Civil Rights Bill should be dispelled. This is not a matter of Military Security. It is a matter of establishing national policy and it requires a consensus of the American people. That consensus cannot be reached, if the facts as to what is in the bill—what ought to be in the bill—and the informed views of leaders of both parties are not available to the public.

The secrecy which surrounds off-the-record meetings in the White House and Executive Sessions on Capitol Hill has become, in my judgment, an impediment in making progress on Civil Rights legislation. The public gets to know only the distorted half-truths which are deliberately leaked from these meetings.

One example in point was the Congressional leadership meeting held at the White House on October 23 and reported in the press the following day. The rumor in the Corridors of the Capitol is that the President detailed his objections to a sub-committee proposal for a Civil Rights bill and then had a memorandum outlining his views. It would surely be helpful to members of the Judiciary Committee and to the American people to have the benefit of the President's own views as set forth in the memorandum—to know exactly what he thinks should be in this bill and what he thinks should not be in it—so that we may judge what his attitude will be when the matter is debated in the Senate and when it comes to his desk for approval or veto.

George Boch, chairman of the fall auction, said that the event two weeks ago netted the firemen $639.94.

Clyde Dennis, senior trustee, reported that within the next two weeks a new door will be installed on the main entrance of the fire hall to conform to requirements set up during the last inspection of the fire insurance underwriters.

Cresaptown Woman Dies In Collision

Husband Is In Serious Condition

A Cresaptown woman was killed and her husband injured in a head-on collision on Pennsylvania Route 45 about 10 miles east of Tyrone, Pa., late yesterday afternoon.

One of four teenage girls from Huntingdon, Pa., was killed in the accident which occurred about 4:45 p. m.

Pennsylvania State Police identified the area victim as Mrs. Mary Ruth Schlosser, 62, wife of Charles E. Schlosser, Cresaptown.

Mr. Schlosser, who is 67, was admitted to Tyrone, Pa., Hospital and was reported in serious condition late last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Schlosser, relatives here said, left here Friday to visit a sister in the Williamsport, Pa., area.

Among the survivors are a son, Ralph A. Schlosser, Brant Road. State Police said Mrs. Schlosser was a passenger in the car driven by her husband.

A teenage girl, tentatively identified as Joyce Peters, 19, of Huntingdon, was also killed in the collision.

Passengers in the Peters car were admitted to the same hospital and were reported in poor condition. They were identified as Sandra Kay Gray, 16, Huntingdon RD 2, and Carole McClain, 17, and Sue Ann Herman, 17, both of Huntingdon.

Marines' Annual 'Toy For Tots' Drive Under Way

The 10th annual "Toys for Tots" campaign conducted by the 43d Rifle Company, Marine Corps Reserve, is under way and will continue through December 20.

Nearly 9,000 toys a year have been collected for needy children by the Marine unit. The Associated Charities repairs and distributes the toys throughout the Cumberland area.

Capt. Sheldon C. Downes, commanding officer of the Marine Reserve, said anyone having old or new toys which they care to donate may call 722-1404 and the Marines will pick them up.

Forestry Crews Get Break As Snow Arrives

Forest wardens in Western Maryland enjoyed a peaceful weekend—the first in many weeks—as rain and snow eased the long drought which has plagued this area.

W. A. C. Irwin, district forester, said no fires were reported in the district over the weekend and that the snow still clinging to the ground in the mountains will bring temporary relief to fire fighting crews.

Forestry workers will be busy for several days, however, repairing equipment which was damaged fighting forest fires during recent weeks.

Mr. Irwin said the department must keep a supply of surplus equipment for just such an emergency as the recent drought and that there is quite a backlog of material which must be repaired before the men can rest.

He said all of the equipment should be ready in a day or two since immediate repairs were ordered for motorized equipment, such as the fire plow which broke down fighting the recent fire on Savage Mountain.

Danger from fires decreased somewhat, he said, when the bow season for deer opened last Friday. It is considered possible that fall rains will set in before the rabbit, ruffed grouse and pheasant season opens in Maryland November 15.

Physical Fitness Group Will Meet

The Allegany County Physical Fitness Commission will conduct its third fall meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at Central YMCA, according to John J. Long, chairman.

Commission members are expected to agree upon recommendations to the State Physical Fitness Commission on compulsory physical education in the three senior high school grades.

Air Force Lists New Skills Needed

A new list of skills needed by the Air Force is available at the local recruiting office, Post Office Building, according to S-Sgt. Lawrence Allison.

The list applies to servicemen of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard as well as former Air Force veterans.

Sgt. Allison said that former servicemen who may have inquired about the program earlier and were not eligible at that time because their skills were not listed, should call him again concerning the entirely new list of needed skills.

Women's Clubs Aid Red Cross

Mrs. Eda Fauss, social welfare aide for Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, accepts a new tape recorder presented to the chapter by Mrs. Raymond Lapp, center chairman of the community service group of the Woman's Civic Club, and Mrs. George W. Aman Jr., president of the Women's Sport Club.

The two clubs presented the recorder to the chapter for use in its "Voice From Home" program for servicemen away from home at Christmas. The program is being conducted by the social welfare aides of the home service department of the chapter.

Firemen Briefed On Details Of Proposed Code

Senator Hughes Is Committee Member

Members of the executive board of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association yesterday were briefed on details of the proposed new state fire code.

James C. Robertson, assistant state fire marshal, discussed the proposed code which has been prepared by a committee appointed by the Legislative Council.

He said the committee which includes Allegany County Senator George R. Hughes Jr. and is headed by Senator James Clark Jr., D-Howard County, will present its report to the council this month with a recommendation that it be adopted and sponsored by the council in the 1964 General Assembly.

The code, Mr. Robertson reported, covers such items as the maximum number of people allowed in buildings, requirements for fire alarm systems and rules for the storage of inflammable materials.

The meeting was held in the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall and attended by representatives of 23 companies.

Alvin Rankin, chairman of the Ways and Means committee for the recent carnival at the LaVale Plaza shopping center, suggested it become an annual event, and tentative plans were made to hold the 1964 carnival between June and August.

A memorial service for Harvey Robertson, of Good Will Company, Lonaconing, was held.

Cromwell Zembower, chairman of the fire prevention and appropriations committees, asked to be relieved due to a change in his duties.

William Smith Jr., Luke, was named to head the fire prevention committee. Serving with him will be Jesse Jacobs, Frostburg; William Clatterback, Deer Park; and Felix Foote, Lonaconing.

John Eichhorn, Lonaconing, will head the appropriations committee. Members are Francis Philpot, Shaft; Alvin Rankin, Frostburg; David Kirk, Bowling Green; and Francis Fatkin, Clarysville.

Mr. Rankin, Muscular Dystrophy chairman, handed out canisters and coin cards which will be distributed by board members. Homer Ambrose, insurance committee chairman, said insurance premiums will remain at $9 this year but that the insuring firm has advised the rate will go up next year unless their membership increases.

It was announced that Harry Thomas, who gave a course in radioactive materials to firemen in Allegany County last year will be available for a similar course in Garrett County.

City police yesterday were investigating a report by Miss Linda Saffie, Ridgeley, that someone substituted an old for a new 12-volt battery as her car was parked in a local parking lot in front of her home on Halloween.

Local Chapter To Begin Program For Servicemen

Appointments for its second annual "Voice From Home" program for area servicemen who are away from home at Christmas are now being accepted by Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

The program in which families of the servicemen record tape messages to be sent overseas at Christmas time, is a project of the Social Welfare Aides who work with the Home Service department of the chapter.

The service is free and tape recordings will be made from November 4 until December 6 at the Red Cross office. Along with the tape recording, the chapter sends a picture of the family taken during the taping process.

The service is also offered to exchange students attending schools in the county.

Each family is allotted approximately eight minutes of recording time.

A new tape recording has been donated to the chapter for the Voice from Home program as a project by the Women's Sport Club and the Community Service Group of the Woman's Civic Club.

Mrs. Eda Fauss and Mrs. Ellen McKenzie are in charge of the program of the local chapter which is a participating agency in the County United Fund.

The building plans include an addition to the science building; new dining hall and kitchen; swimming pool and other physical education facilities; new men's and women's dormitories; remodeling of present building where dining hall is located and expanding and renovating heating system.

Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president, said it is hoped that beginning phases of construction will start in the spring. The science addition will be the first project.

Mrs. Eliza Colvin Felton, 67, wife of Donald H. Felton, Schellsburg, died Friday night in Bedford Memorial Hospital of injuries suffered when she was struck by the westbound car.

Her sister, Miss Flora H. Colvin, 76, of Schellsburg RD, suffered a fractured left arm and possible internal injuries. She was reported still critical last night in the Bedford hospital.

College Probe Will Be Held Here Today

Parent Group Airs Dispute

WHEATON, Md. (AP) — A small group of Frostburg State College students and parents of students met at Wheaton High School Sunday to discuss the current unrest on the college campus at Frostburg.

One source said the meeting was attended simply to inform the parents of the student point of view.

Mrs. John Lakenan of Silver Spring, the mother of a sophomore at Frostburg, said:

"We do not expect to do a thing except to trust this board of investigation to do justice."

She was referring to a special three-man committee named by William L. Wilson, president of the state college board of trustees, which will hear testimony in Cumberland Monday from students, faculty members and representatives of the college administration.

Many students and faculty members contend that fear and dissension exist at the school because of administrative policies.

Hardesty Sends Letter

Meanwhile, parents of students have been told by the college president that "the students feel they alone should interpret" the philosophy of the institution.

A form letter from President R. Bowen Hardesty, dated Nov. 1, and mailed along with several accompanying news releases, refers indirectly to the current unrest on the Frostburg campus.

"The letter hardly gives the full story," said one parent, who preferred to remain anonymous. "It leaves a lot of questions unanswered, and wouldn't make much sense if I didn't read accounts of what happened in the newspapers."

"The last letters sent to our students during the summer gave guidance to students for successfully moving through college and into successful walks of life after graduation," the letter from Hardesty said.

"The content of those letters was based upon the written philosophy of our college appearing in several college publications and upon the Student Handbook developed by Student Government to be enforced," the letter continued.

"Who Should Interpret?" "The students feel they alone should interpret this philosophy rather than anyone else. A philosophy is implemented in classrooms, on campus and off campus. As you realize, rules and policies are not made to be ignored."

"My latest press release indicates that the officials of our college are very pleased to have our board investigate conditions at Frostburg State College," Hardesty wrote. "In the best interest of the state college now and for the years ahead, this investigation is essential."

Discussion Set On Red Cross Blood Program

Mrs. Betty Vizi, coordinator of the Johnstown Regional Blood Center, American Red Cross, will conduct a round-table discussion on the merits and changes in the county blood program at a Dutch treat luncheon Friday at noon at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Mrs. Harry Beneman, blood chairman for Allegany County Chapter, said the meeting is being held to inform personnel of health and welfare agencies, hospital and insurance staffs, industries and news media how the Red Cross program is able to operate and to serve them when needed.

Reservations for the luncheon should be made with the local chapter office, 722-1760, by Wednesday.

Low Has TV Role

Carl Low, former Cumberland, was in the cast of "The Silver Burro" on the show of the Week televised last night by NBC.

Man, 76, Killed By Fire

Earl Resh, 76-year-old Jennings farmer, died last night in Meyersdale Community Hospital of burns he received when a stove exploded at his home yesterday afternoon.

Somerset County coroner Robert H. Halverson said death was caused by multiple third-degree burns over 90 per cent of the body.

Authorities said Mr. Resh had laid a fire in the stove and evidently threw kerosene on it, which ignited and caught his clothes on fire. Mr. Resh sat on a couch to remove his clothing, but the couch also caught fire and enveloped him in flames.

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Company and Newman ambulance answered a call to the house at 3:25 p. m. They were called by Mr. Resh's granddaughter who lives nearby. Mr. Resh lived alone. The fire, which was confined to the couch, was out when firemen arrived.

Cold Weekend Brings Snow, Wind To Area

The tri-state area received a taste of winter over the weekend, with lower temperatures, cold rain, wind and snow sweeping across much of the area.

The weatherman, however, said summer is fighting a stubborn but losing battle, as temperatures were expected to be temporarily warmer today.

Saturday night and Sunday, snow fell in Allegany and Garrett counties. Nearby Pennsylvania areas also saw their first snowfall of the season. Two inches of snow covered the ground in Clarysville, Eckhart, Frostburg and points westward. Mineral, Grant and Tucker counties in West Virginia reported up to two inches of snowfall in the mountains.

Cumberland experienced high winds, cold rains and snow flurries. But the flurries lasted only briefly as rain took over and wind swirled it away.

Temperatures Saturday and Sunday were among the lowest daytime readings of the season here. Mercury dropped to the 20s and low 30s in most of the area. Skies were overcast.

Yesterday there was some sunshine, mild winds, and mercury rose to near 50 around noon. Temperatures for most of the day remained in the upper 40s.

The forecast for Maryland indicated last night that mercury would reach 55 to 60 today, with skies partly cloudy.

Scattered showers were predicted for parts of Pennsylvania with cloudy skies and a little warmer by tonight. In the east, fair weather was the forecast.

Increasing cloudiness, but some warming, is expected in West Virginia Monday after the state got a taste of wintry weather over the weekend.

The cold spell was expected to send temperatures dipping mostly into the 20s early Monday.

Highs Monday probably will be mostly in the 50s.

Sportsmen took to the fields again Saturday after rainfall through Friday allowed the reopening of the West Virginia small game hunting season at 6 a. m. Saturday.

Hunting had been suspended since October 16 due to serious forest fire conditions.

Delicatessen Is Broken Into

City police yesterday began investigating the forced entry and theft of food and merchandise from a South Cumberland delicatessen over Saturday night.

Harvey Ware, proprietor of Ware's Delicatessen at 48 Humboldt Street, reported that a customer going to the store yesterday found the glass broken out of the front door and reported a possible breaking and entering.

Detective Harry Iser, who investigated, was told six cartons of cigarettes, a ham, slab of bacon, a quantity of beer and two pairs of gloves were missing.

Police were told a neighbor heard glass breaking about 2 a. m. Also being investigated is the theft of a pocketbook from a Baltimore Street store reported by Thelma Hinkle, 615 Frederick Street. Police were told the loss of the pocketbook, containing about $190, was discovered by Mrs. Hinkle after she returned to the store from a luncheon break.

Fall Brings Spurt In Construction

F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today that September contracts for future construction in Maryland totaled $94,930,000, up 43 per cent compared to September 1962.

Nonresidential at $39,286,000, was up 116 per cent; residential at $38,492,000, down 3 per cent, and nonbuilding construction (public works and utilities) at $17,152,000, up 100 per cent.

Contracts for the first nine months of 1963 amounted to $742,797,000, a 10 per cent decrease.

Firemen said the fire was stopped before it advanced 50 yards and that there was no damage.

Fire Chief Harry Martz headed the 15-man crew which put out the blaze.

Mt. Savage Native Killed In Collision

Aden Elwood Lavin Dies In Virginia

A native of Mt. Savage was killed instantly in an accident involving two trucks and two cars yesterday in Fairfax, Va.

The victim was identified by Fairfax police as Aden Elwood Lavin, 32, of 2141 North Military Road, Arlington, Va.

Police said he was driving on Route 29-211 when he collided with a van owned by the Washington Evening Star and driven by Raymond Hall, 34.

Hall's truck collided with a tractor-trailer he was passing when the initial crash occurred and a fourth vehicle, driven by Roger W. Mullins, 21, of Fairfax, collided with the van.

There were no other serious injuries in the crash, which occurred a quarter mile west of Route 50, police said.

Mr. Lavin, an employee of an Arlington furnace and heating company, was born in Mt. Savage. He was a son of Mrs. Fannie (Chisholm) Lavin, Mt. Savage, and the late Aden Joseph Lavin, who died in 1960.

He was a member of the Methodist Church.

The body is at the Silcox Funeral Residence, where friends will be received today from 7 until 9 p. m. and tomorrow from 2 until 4 p. m. and 7 until 9 p. m.

A service will be conducted at the funeral home Wednesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. William Harold, pastor of Mt. Savage Methodist Church. Interment will be in Mt. Savage Cemetery.

A brush fire which broke out late yesterday afternoon near Brush Tunnel on Western Maryland Railway property was put out by the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company.

Firemen said the fire was stopped before it advanced 50 yards and that there was no damage.

Fire Chief Harry Martz headed the 15-man crew which put out the blaze.
